

ABOUT ME

With 3 years of experience in game development, I bring valuable assistance in building initial project frameworks. Proficient in debugging and bug finding, I also excel at developing and promoting new projects, generating new revenue for the initiative. My background in coding equips me with the capability to create new content for projects or anything else the company desires. I am committed to continuously improving my skills and collaborating closely with others in the workplace, as well as after hours, working efficiently and always dedicated to achieving the highest quality results.
